Dear Residents:

In these difficult times, it is often difficult to find any product or service that we can actually call a bargain. I want to take this opportunity to remind residents of one such program in the Village of Stickney.

At the Village we passed an electricity aggregation program that allows residents and small businesses to save on their electricity bills each month. Electricity rates have skyrocketed recently and most villages will not be able to procure a rate below eight cents per kilowatt hour.

Luckily, all residents of the Village of Stickney are eligible for the village's aggregation program, which has a rate of 5.382 cents per kilowatt hour. That price is guaranteed until February 2016.

Anyone who is already enrolled in this program doesn't have to take any action and will remain a customer and continue to receive electricity at a low price. If you have remained as a customer with ComEd, you are facing a price of eight centers per kilowatt hour. However, you can join the aggregation group and save up to 48% on your electricity supply charge.

We know some electricity suppliers have called residents on the phone or visited their homes in an attempt to switch electricity supply. Do not be fooled by these companies who often mislead residents into believing they will save money but often only provide a variable price that is not guaranteed. The village secured a price that is guaranteed with First Energy.

If you wish to join aggregation the program, contact the Village's Aggregation Consultant, Illinois Energy Aggregation LLC (IEA), at 630-230-6434. IEA will need your account number, your name, address and phone number to enroll you in the program. If you own a business you may also be eligible for low priced electricity. Call IEA to find out if you are eligible for the program.

Very truly yours,

Deborah Morelli
